

Public Lecture

Susannah Radstone

Reader in Cultural Theory
School of Social Sciences, Media & Drama Education
University of East London

GETTING OVER TRAUMA: NEW PARADIGMS IN MEMORY RESEARCH

Wednesday, October 22, 2008
5:30 p.m.
Faculty of Education
Room 129, 3700 McTavish St.

Susannah Radstone is an international leader in the area of memory and method, particularly in relation to feminist memory, cultural memory and film theory. Her books (including co-edited and co-authored works) include: Contested Pasts: The Politics of Memory; Memory and Methodology; Memory Cultures: Subjectivity, Recognition and Memory; Public Emotions; Regimes of Memory; The Sexual Politics of Time: Confession, Nostalgia, Memory; Sweet Dreams: Sexuality, Gender and Popular Fiction; and The Women's Companion To International Film.

The talk is the opening event of an international invitational workshop hosted by the Faculty of Education of McGill University: Back to the Future: Productive Remembering in Changing Times.

A wine and cheese reception will follow.